

UT School of Human Ecology Awards Nearly $85,000 in Undergraduate Scholarships

S.H.E. In the News

The 2009-2010 academic year is just under way and the School of Human Ecology has awarded over $84,000 in prestigious scholarships to our undergraduate majors. Scholarship awards range from $350 to $4000 each. More than 50 students received these highly competitive scholarships. With an average GPA of 3.52, our majors are a fine example of excellence and merit. Recipients major in Human Development and Family Sciences, Nutritional Sciences or Textiles and Apparel.

We, here in the School of Human Ecology, are proud of our 2009-2010 scholarship recipients and congratulate them on their success and commitment to academic excellence. We must also thank our generous donors for making these scholarships available to our students. Without their generosity none of this would be possible.

2010-2011 application information will be available in early spring 2010.